The Admiralty,

On a deck both cold and slippery,
Stood a figure lone and sturdy,
Stood he there against the railing.
Braving both the wind and water.
He had braved the rising waters,
Battled Japs and Germans both Courageous he amoung the bravest
Dauntless true and never tiring.
Stood he there, this contemplating Took one fast look at his two gold stars,
Then threw up.

We dwell amid the mountains and we know the heights and the depths of the land. There is an enveloping mist that blends the hill and valley into one; there is sun that clarifies and causes the mountain to stand out high and sharp and the valley to lie silent and dark in the shadow. There are times when we cannot reach the summit, and we cannot feel the earth below our feet. For these times of continuous change the rolling hills were made as mute symbols of our uncertainty. The terrain is broad and varied. This is a land of youth and, indeed, of all life. We have passed a year of travel in the mountains and the valleys of Fayetteville High School. It is, in itself, unique.

". . . and the second column is composed of youth, running as with winged feet, singing as if their throats were strung with silver strings, and climbing toward the mountaintop as though drawn by some irresistible, magic power."

Each Man's soul has stood alone in the cool, soothing darkness of the valley of solitude. Here he asks himself the questions of life and self. He is deepened through hours of meditation, imagination, and dreaming. But the broadening of man is not acquired in loneliness. There is a congregating of men upon the mountain top. This is the true site of learning. Face to face, mind to mind, each shares his solitude with his fellows in an earnest search for the living of life. Here he finds answers and more answers to the questions asked in meditation. And here, too, is man's chance to put all his dreams into practice. FHS is one such mountain-top; each person involved is met here to share and to learn.

principals try new methods and ideas

Mr. R. W. Willis, assistant principal, checks the mail (below). Mr. William H. Duncan (right), FHS principal, helps Phil Cotterman, senior, find a key. Mr. Willis and Mr. Duncan adjust the temperature. Whether working separately or together, the two main heads of FHS always seem to manage to solve any school problems which arise.

Dr. Wayne White, Superintendent of Fayetteville Public Schools (pictured left), in addition to being an able administrator, also takes interest in civic projects, the scope of which includes all of Arkansas. Above he meets with (left to right) David Rockefeller, a prominent banker, Governor Winthrop Rockefeller, Cass Hough of Daisy Rifles. To the right is Dr. White. Below is a discussion between (left to right) Mr. Roberts, Mr. Vandergriff, and Mr. Slaven, administrative personnel.

Mr. Clinton Gibble (above) is in charge of bookkeeping and accounting at Fayetteville Schools. Left, Mr. Joe Holt, physical education supervisor for Fayetteville Schools, examines a new piece of PE equipment. Below left is Mrs. Clara Fitzhugh, school nurse, who is always concerned with student health. Mrs. Milly Hood (below right), Dr. White's secretary, plays a leading role in administration.

Mrs. Buell Woods, Guidance Counselor, looks forward to helping all FHS students. Mrs. Ray Hunt (right), new addition to the guidance office, grades tests among other duties.

Students with problems find consolation, advice and understanding in the guidance department. Even if one doesn't have a problem the guidance office can serve him. The counselors can help with college planning, with the selection of classes through high school, and with individual dilemmas. Mrs. Tom Hardin, counselor (right), keeps her schedules going by making appointments over the phone.

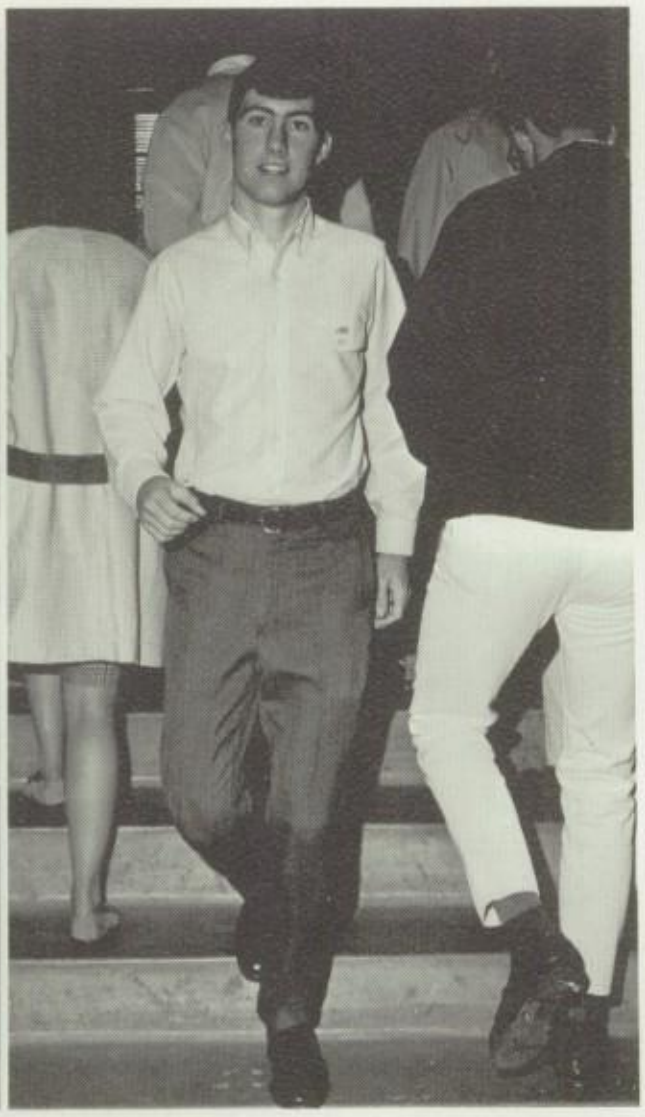
have memorable year

This year has been filled with many exciting experiences for the class of '68. For the first time in their high school lives, the seniors won the annual homecoming float competition. Many seniors gave much of their time to produce the winning float named "Spout a Whale of a Victory."

The seniors also won the United Fund Drive for the second straight year.

STEVE WOOD

PRESIDENT



MARTY BROWN

VICE PRESIDENT

The seniors have finally made it. All those years of worry and Excedrin headaches are about over. No more long, endless nights of studying for that senior English or Advanced Biology test in the morning. No more rushing up and down the halls so you won't be the one caught for detention that afternoon. Those days of reading and writing are about at an end for the class of '68.

The years the seniors have spent at FHS have been filled with memorable moments, though. Those first scary days as sophomores, living in terror of the seniors whom everyone was talking about. As juniors, thinking into the future when they would become seniors. Then the day finally comes when those sophomores are finally seniors. They are upperclassmen. It's hard to accept, but it's real. The position of senior is important to them.

Success, defeat, joy, and sorrow are just a few of the things that make up the life of a junior. Although the junior class only received second place in the float competition, much time and effort was put forth. Many individuals received special recognition for their academic achievements. Clubs and organizations turned to juniors for leadership.

But now the class of '69 must look toward the future and prepare to accept whatever confronts them next year.

The acquisition of knowledge is a challenge, a hill to climb, and it can be a steep and rugged journey for some. A good teacher acts as a guide over the rough spots, finds the best paths, and conducts the determined student to the summit. Each student has a special hill, his individual goal. FHS offers opportunity to all, however varied the interests of its students.

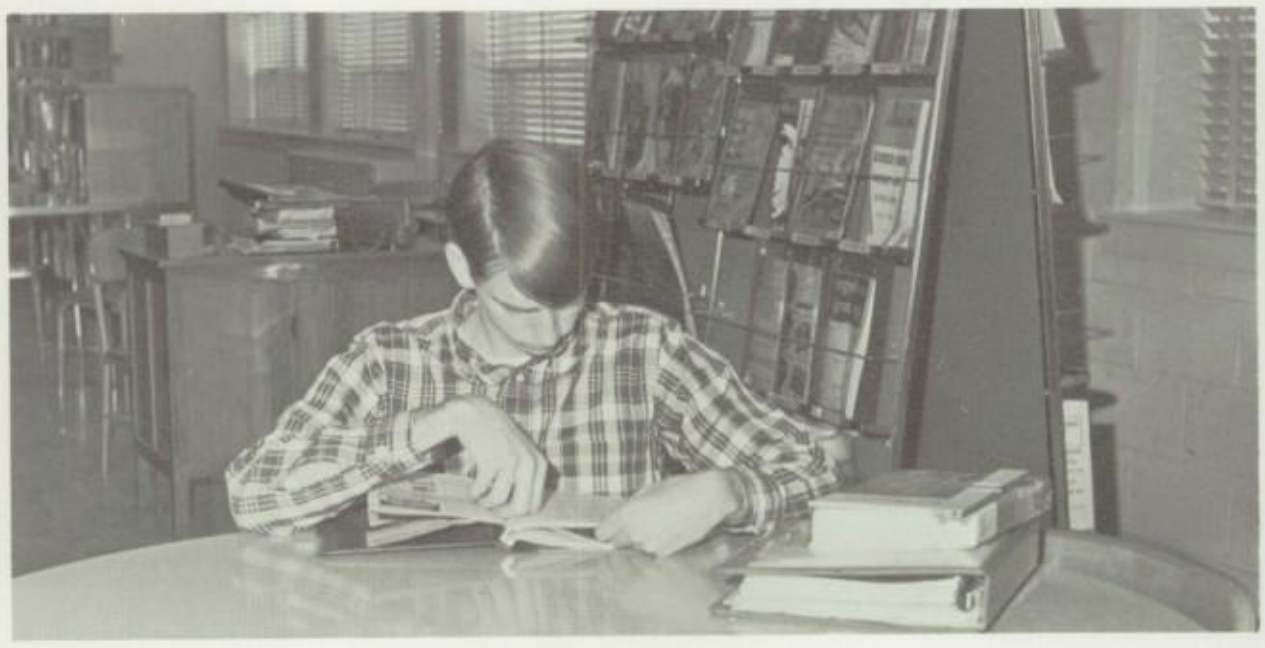
a nice place to visit

Mrs. Walter Brooks

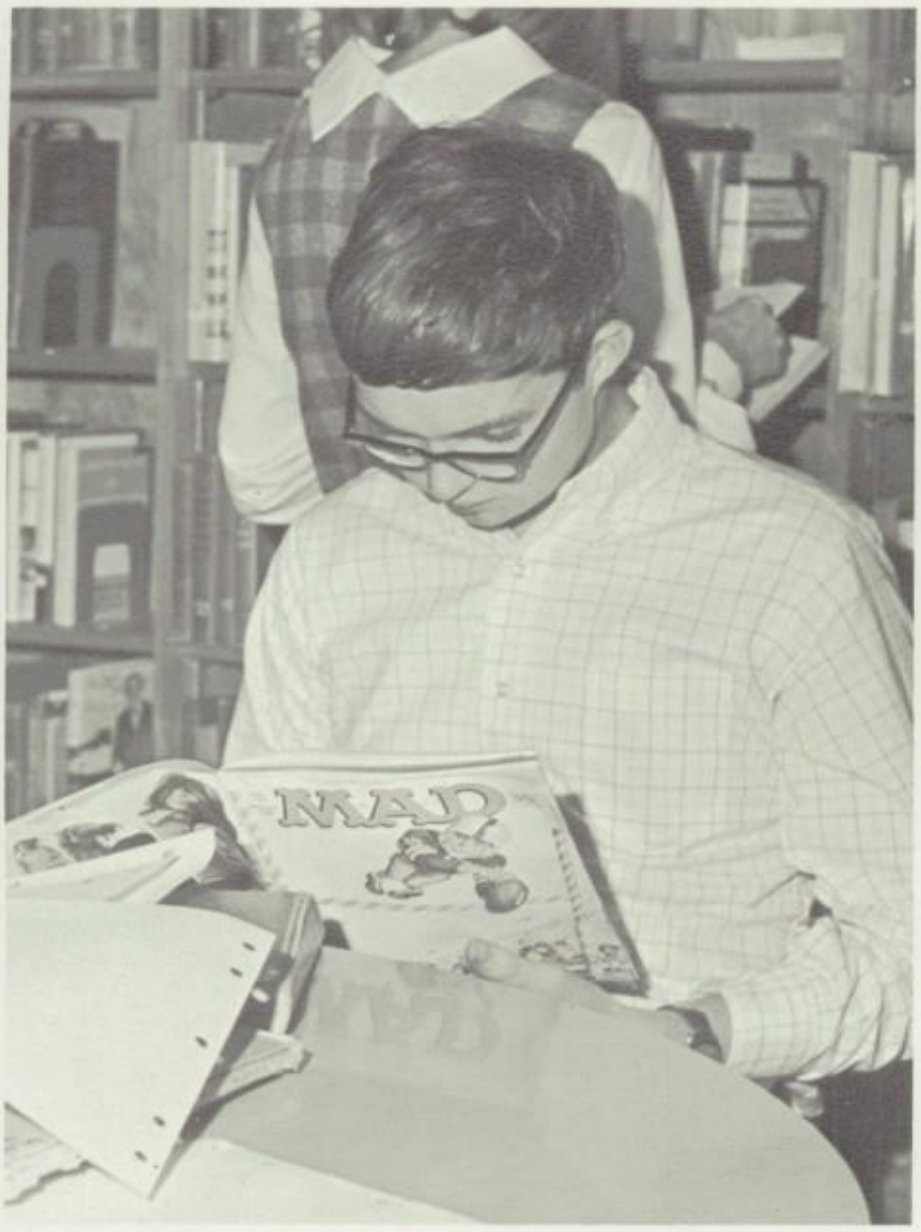
Mrs. Richard Freeman

Mrs. Melvin Porter

The best possible place for students to be when they are in need of information for a report or just simply wanting to sit down with a good book and relax is the library. The library is equipped with the best possible staff to help them find any book or information that they are seeking. There is always a supply of the latest magazines to bring them up to date on the current events. There is an unlimited supply of information on any subject that they wish to investigate. No matter where their interests lie they will find something to please them in the library.



Peter Eddie (above) seems to be especially interested in one of the library's latest magazines. Sue Williams (left) smiles pleasantly as she tries to catch up on her studying.



Eddie McNeal (left) is thoroughly enjoying a piece of entertaining literature not supplied by the school library. Mrs. Porter (above) one of our capable librarians, works steadily at the typewriter to keep the library in the best possible order.

Much of the agriculture student's work takes place outside the classroom. One of the projects that gives experience to the student and makes money for the chapter is the pig chain. At left, Larry Treece signs his agreement to care for a pig as Mark Tankersley explains the agreement.

The chain starts when a member is given a pig by the chapter. The pig is then bred and when it farrows, two of the pigs must be given back to the chapter to be distributed to other members.

Miss Virginia McNair

Miss Virginia McNair, a new member of the faculty, has instructed the art classes in the drawing of portraits, landscapes, abstracts, and still lifes. Under Miss McNair's supervision the students have discovered many different medias. Some of the medias they have used are tempera, tissue paper, watercolor, charcoal, and pen and ink. The classes have also listened to lectures and watched films on art history and technique. When working on projects such as landscapes the classes often go outside to draw. The classes visited the Fine Arts Center, at the U of A, to view art exhibits and observe classes in the different fields of art.

The music department, under the direction of Mr. Don Wright and Miss Pat Ellison, had another outstanding year. The band and the chorus presented many interesting programs during the year. Every group in the department participated in both the Christmas and Spring concerts.

Distributive Education is a program of instruction in merchandising, marketing, and management. It is supervised by the school board and the school administration, with the help and cooperation of local businesses.

DE programs are necessary in the school system because one of every two persons employed are in distributive occupations.

This program provides individual instruction to the student in a specific job area that is related to his field of work.

It also develops individual job attitudes and sets up a study program.

DE saves the employer training, time, and money.

home economics:

The study of Home Economics stresses a high degree of performance, greater personal responsibility as a member of a family and the acquisition of high moral standards and ideals. The many phases of home living give students the opportunity to learn and grow wiser in the field of vital human experience.

The changing pattern of family life points to the need of sound money management in the home. The role of the working wife or mother calls for greater responsibility of time and energy. Skills in routine tasks need to be developed for maximum efficiency and satisfaction.

Homemaking is the job for everyone. This does not mean that each one should participate in all homemaking activities, but it does mean that everyone should contribute to the welfare of the family and the home to the best of each individual's ability.

Mrs. White and second year students practice the translation of Latin literature.

The French, Spanish, and Latin classes were under the direction of three new teachers this year. Mrs. Gastón Fernández, Spanish; Mrs. Robert Dorsch, French, and Mrs. Wayne White, Latin; replaced Mrs. George Basore, Mrs. Don Deweese, and Mrs. L. B. Andrew. The former FHS language instructors received grants for study at the University of Arkansas for the '67-'68 school year.

Mrs. Fernandez teaches Spanish on the first, second, third, and fourth year levels. A native of Cuba, Mrs. Fernandez has also benefited the entire student body through her lectures on life in her country and the communistic phase of its government.

Mrs. White (not pictured), wife of Superintendent of Schools Wayne White, holds classes in first and second year Latin. Mrs. White is also involved in the home teaching system.

The science courses at FHS are designed to help a student in daily life activities and to prepare a student for the study of science on a higher level. Biology, the science of living things, helps us to understand about the simplest forms of life and prepares the student for college biology.

Chemistry is designed to give college bound students a foundation in the fundamental skills of the subject.

Physics, the study of basic physical phenomena, is designed for the advanced science student who has excelled in biology and chemistry.

With the help of various visual equipment, the history department continues to help students prepare for the future by studying past generation's mistakes. Panel discussions, debates, lectures, and skits aid in stimulating interest in history classes. American history, European history, world history, American government, commerical law economics, psychology, and sociology all make up the social science department. The basis for social science classes is to teach students how to live in our ever-changing world.

dogs deflate southside 13-7

The Rebels of Southside, ranked 6th in the state at game-time, fell to the Dogs 13-7 in their first conference game of the year. Mike McFerran scored the first TD in the first quarter as the Bulldogs lead 6-0. Southside scored after recovering a fumble on the FHS 22 yard line. The Dogs won the game when Jamie Jones recovered a fumble and Leroy Baugus caught the touchdown pass from Mike McFerran.

At right is a typical scene in the Springdale game--Larry Adams breaking through the defensive line for long yardage.

The FHS Bulldogs rolled to an easy victory over the Bentonville Tigers in their season opener. Mike McFerran passed to Leroy Baugus and Steve Collins for two of the TD's and Larry Adams ran for the third one from two yards out. Jim Baker kicked the three extra points for a final score of 21-0.

northside bombs bulldogs

Sorrow and pride came to the Bulldogs as they lost to Number 1 ranked Northside 36-13. Sorrow in the defeat, and yet, pride due to the fact that this was the first time that FHS had scored on the Grizzlies in recent years. During the third period Mike McFerran passed to Leroy Baugus for the first FHS TD of the game, but Northside had a 30 point advantage. Again in the fourth quarter, the Bulldogs scored on the McFerran to Baugus pass combination. The extra point by Pat Downey made the final score 36-13 in powerful Northside's favor.

red dogs edge purple dogs

The Bulldogs lost their second conference game as they faced their arch-rival Springdale. The Red Dogs scored first as a lineman recovered a fumble and raced 81 yards for the score. FHS Bulldogs advanced three times to excellent scoring position only to lose out at the last moment. In the fourth quarter Springdale scored on a double reverse. The final score was 13-0.

parkview bows to fhs 26-18

The Bulldogs roused to a stirring victory against Springfield Parkview as they scored four times against the Vikings. Mike McFerran, Warren Reis, Larry Adams, and Carie Buckley each scored a TD as FHS won an offensive battle 26-18.

hot springs succumbs 14-6

The hopes of three more wins than losses for the season rode on the outcome of the Hot Springs game. The first TD came on a one yard run as Larry Adams cracked the Trojan defense. Pat Downey kicked the extra point and FHS lead 7-0. This is how things stayed until the fourth quarter when Hot Springs scored on a double reverse. Later in the period, Mike McFerran passed to Leroy Baugus for six yards and the touchdown making the final score 14-6 with Downey's kick. Tailback Larry Adams had a truly outstanding game--he gained 231 yards on 41 carries.

Jim Scarbrough made the only touchdown for FHS against the Springfield Bulldogs. Mike McFerran passed to Leroy Baugus for 3 yards and then to Scarbrough putting Fayetteville on the scoreboard first with a 6-0 lead. During the third quarter Springfield intercepted a pass and ran it back for the TD. Springfield scored again in the fourth quarter to break the tie 13-6.

The Bulldogs went into their second conference game with a 2-2 season record. The Dogs faced an undefeated team in Texarkana who held a respectable third place in state ranking. Al Zaccanti made the only FHS score in the opening minutes of the second half. Pat Downey's extra point tied the game 7-7. However, Texarkana's powerful tailback Mike Saint ran 85 yards for the winning touchdown to make the final score 14-7.

bulldogs rip van buren

The mighty Purple Bulldogs proved an unconquerable force for the Van Buren Pointers. Mike McFerran made the first two TD's and Pat Downey kicked an extra point for a 13-0 first quarter lead for Fayetteville. Gary Mahan next added points to the Dogs' lead on an intercepted pass. The extra point gave FHS a 20-0 lead. Luke Coker led the next drive and scored on a 19 yard run and left FHS with a 27-0 halftime lead. In the second half, Billy Reeves ran for the final TD of the game and Downey made the extra point for a 34-0 homecoming win.

Above, wingback Al Zaccanti follows some fine blocking to almost get away from the Texarkana defensive secondary.

Hopes of a 7-4 season were kept alive as FHS edged the favored Rogers Mountaineers in a cold, muddy game. The only TD came on a quarterback sneak by Mike McFerran. Nearing the completion of the game, Rogers was stopped twice inside the FHS 10 yard line. Despite the mud, FHS won an upset 6-0.

fhs has st. anne's buffaloed

As the FHS Bulldogs pushed aside the Buffaloes of St. Anne's, they came into their own with the respectable record of 7-4 for their season play. Carie Buckley carried twice to the end zone for two touchdowns and Mike McFerran passed to Leroy Baugus for the third FHS TD. Pat Downey kicked three extra points in the game and Jamie Jones, Chris James, and Jack Butt made a safety as they caught the opposing quarterback in his end zone. The final score was 23-14.

bulldog gridiron leaders

Jim Scarbrough, split end

Quarterback Mike McFerran was a very important leader for the offense this year with passes in critical situations for first down yardage. He completed almost 50% of his passes and ten of these went for touchdowns. He was also a master of the roll-out pass-run option. If he found no open receivers, he would find an opening in the line and run.

Mike's favorite receiver was Leroy Baugus who caught six touchdown passes. On plays where the Bulldogs were in desperate need of long yardage, Leroy would manage to break loose from defenders and catch the all-important pass.

Mike's back-up quarterback, Luke Coker, saw limited action, but performed very capably the short time that he was in. His best game was against Van Buren when he scored a TD on a 19 yard run.

The Bulldogs explosive backfield was aided tremendously by the running of powerful tailback Larry Adams. Larry gained over 100 yards rushing in seven of the games he played. The only exceptions were against Bentonville, against the large Springfield Central team, against Rogers when the field was muddy, and against Northside which undoubtedly has one of the best defensive lines in the state. Larry's best game was against Hot Springs when he gained 231 yards on 41 carries.

junior varsity has success

The junior varsity, consisting of sophomore football players, had an extremely successful season this year as they won six of their nine games under coaches David Vinson and Ken Ramey. The team held their opposition to an average of only seven points per game. They lost their first game to Harrison by a score of 17-6. However, after that opening loss, they had a winning streak of five games before losing to Springdale 19-6. One of the teams they defeated during this winning streak was Harrison.

The sophomores had many shifts in their lineup, both on offense and defense. Nineteen players played in the backfield at different times, which is an average of almost five for each position. The reason for shifting the players so much is that the boys are looking for experience in different positions to enable them to play better football when they play for the varsity next year. Coach Vinson said, "A good player should be able to play every position except quarterback." Each of the sophomores will be assigned to a definite position next year.

The Varsity B wasn't successful this year in winning many games. However, the players did gain valuable playing experience for next year. This is the most important aspect of the varsity B and junior varsity teams. A player can have exceptional ability, but he needs experience to develop this ability to the fullest extent.

win 17 lose 5

This year's B team can look forward to a tougher season next year, but look back with pride on a season of tough games with only losing five games. The team lost to Hot Springs, Northside, Springfield Central, and Southside while playing the same schedule as the Varsity. Their coach, David Vinson, came to Fayetteville High after coaching at Ramay Junior High and at Hillcrest before that. Next year these boys will be teamed up with those boys on the Varsity who do not graduate. (Those who will graduate will be Melvin Smith, Mike McFerran, and Russell Hall.)

This year the Bulldog's C team played a number of teams of different classes including AA, A, B, and even the B team of a AAA school. The record was 10 wins and 4 losses. Four victories were given to Lincoln (class A, varsity), Prairie Grove (class B, varsity), Huntsville class AA, B team) and Fayetteville (class AAA, B team). The Huntsville C team fell to the FHS team by a score of 54-19. The team also beat the Prairie Grove B team and the Greenland varsity squad twice. According to Coach Ken Ramey there is a need for more experience, but the boys make up for it in the way they hustle.

aides are numerous

Yes - students, too many to recognize in the yearbook offer their services to Fayetteville High School. They include office, guidance, and teacher's aides, plus the fire marshalls.

Judy Baucom, Debbie Froud, and Peggy Stephens collect absence slips and prepare the day's attendence report.

Barbara Cowan is one of the many office aides who delivers messages and runs errands during the day.

Second period aides Bob Haley and Debbie Smith are two of those who assist in the guidance office.

John Reid, Marty Brown, and Carie Buckley, FHS fire marshalls, probably won't get a chance to use this extinguisher but at least they know where it is.

Teacher's aides Nina Burge (left) and Sandra Goff help in making out tests, grading papers and other "odd jobs".

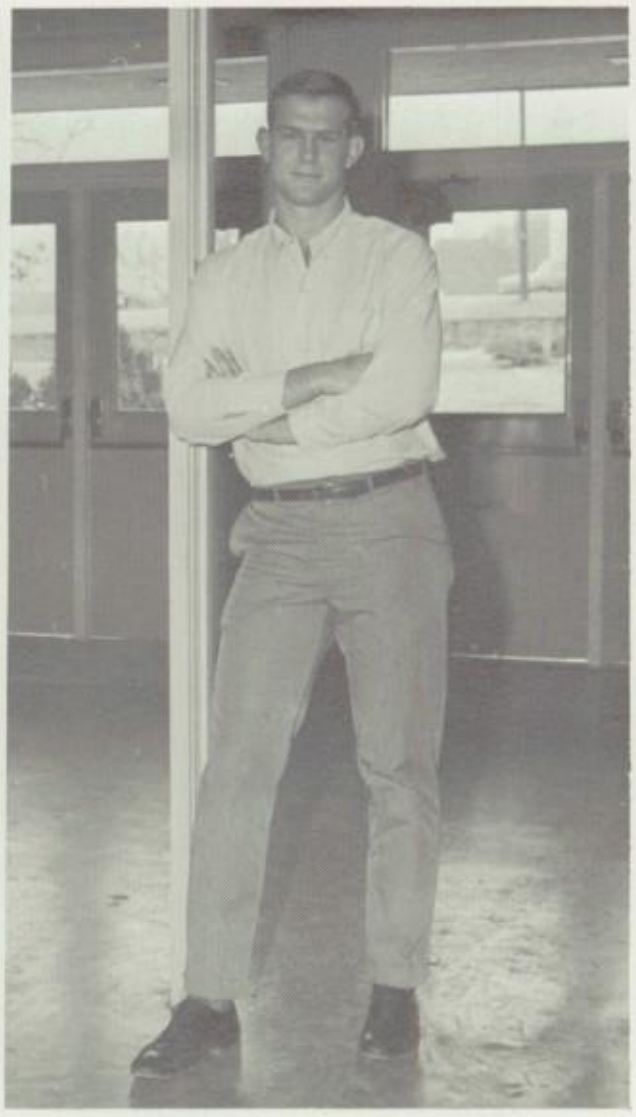
the dogs' "f" troop

The Letterman's Club is, according to sponsor Coach Ray Brown, an organization for those who have lettered in a varsity sport including football, basketball, track, cross country, golf, and tennis. This group of boys, in the words of Marty Brown, is not only dedicated to sports, but also to FHS.



Vice-president of the senior class, Marty Brown who lettered in football, is the secretary-treasurer of this organization.

Russell Hall (210 lb. and 6' 3" tall) is the sergeant-at-arms for this group. Russell was named outstanding lineman for the conference.

future farmers of america

Each year in the Fayetteville Chapter of Future Farmers of America there are a few leaders who do a lot toward pulling the chapter through the rough places. Through these boys' work and leadership, with the help and cooperation of the other boys, the club is made a successful chapter. On these boys' shoulders and boys like these in chapters all over the U.S. rests the future of agriculture and America. The officers for this year are pictured above. key club

The Key Club, sponsored by Kiwanis International, was again one of the most active clubs in the school. The club is dedicated to service to the community as well as the school. This dedication was shown in an outstanding manner. For example, the club purchased a sign to go on top of the scoreboard at Harmon Field, members painted the pressbox in the gym, and provided a Santa Claus for the Child Day-Care Center. During the football season the club also took part in the operation of concession stands at all home games.

Again, as in the past, the big money making project was the annual pancake marathon sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club.

language club finds learning entertaining

The Language Club is an organization which unifies students of Latin, French, and Spanish. Under the sponsorship of French instructor Mrs. Robert Dorsch the 200 members of the club meet to share the different cultural aspects of the three languages.

Programs have included skits, readings, lectures, musical performances, and dramatizations.

Besides monthly meetings, members plan and attend annually a Christmas party and an Ides of March banquet. The cultural exchange is supplemented through significant decorations, refreshments, and entertainment themes.

Mrs. Wayne White, Mrs. Gastón Fernández, and Mrs. Robert Dorsch accept the Language Club's gift at the annual Christmas party. The object, supposedly, was a sculpture of sorts.

Gastón Fernández, a junior at FHS, addressed the Language Club on the subject of teenage life and schooling in Cuba, his native country.

March 14 highlighted the spring semester for the Language Club with the annual Ides of March Banquet. The banquet, based on a German Fasching theme this year, provided entertainment in the form of the Messershmidt and the FHS Stage Band. The German dishes served were almost equally entertaining.

Individual departments accomplished several projects during the spring. The Spanish IV class, under the direction of Mrs. Fernandez, attended the State Spanish Contest and Festival in Little Rock April 5. The spanish department also carried the language into their social scene with spring picnics and Mexican dinners. Latin classes produced a Latin "stone tablet" newspaper which even listed school yells. The French group prepared all the posters for the language group meetings and attended the state French contest at Ft. Smith.

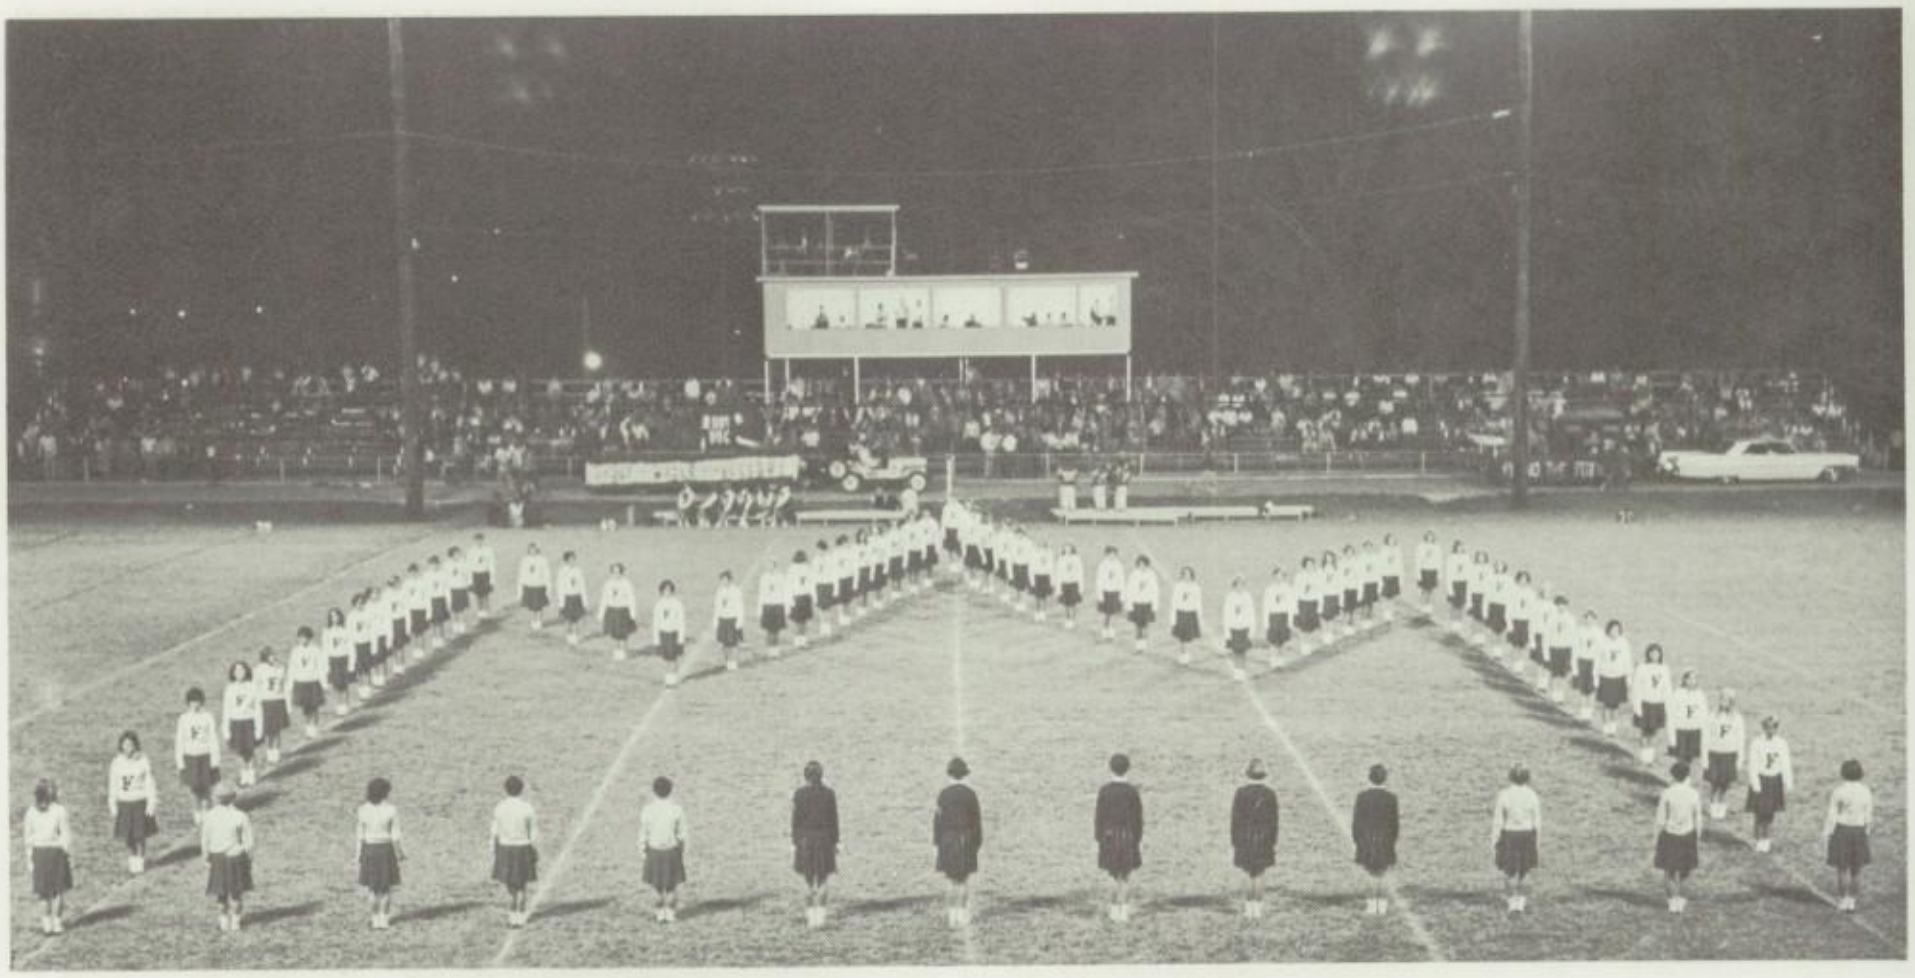
National Honor Society students started out a busy year with the annual NHS Summer Workshop for club officers and from there went on to even greater tasks and faster schedules.

NHS chose "rotating pictures" as their special project this year. Paintings and pictures from the art room were circulated throughout FHS classrooms to display high school talent.

Traditional practices were also continued this year. These include the NHS Bulletin Board, with emphasis on America and patriotism; the supply shop in its new location across from the gym; and the traveling trophy, going to the homeroom with the highest grade point each six weeks. The Honors Day program was also sponsored.

A change in the NHS initiation was introduced this year, and will be put into effect next year. In the future there will be only one initiation held in the spring.



Peppers added an extra touch to Homecoming ceremonies by forming an attractive crown.

peppers ... lift school spirits and Verbal and visible support certainly is necessary to show the Dogs that all are behind them. This is the reason for the existence of the Peppers Club. Senior and junior girls, chosen during their sophomore year, employ their songs and cheers to make football and basketball games more exciting and enjoyable. They not only give their time to attend home games, but also travel by school bus to most out-of-town games. Their aim is to boost school spirit and support the Bulldog teams which they accomplish by leading pep rallies. Among other activities, they annually sponsor a Spaghetti Supper featuring original Pepper talent.

OFFICERS: Top row: Connie Ivey, standard bearer; Carol Guinn, vice president; Judy Dale, treasurer; Carolyn Thurlby, recording secretary. Bottom row: Shelley Brandon, corresponding secretary; Liz Schlegel, president; Miriam Patterson, sergeant-at-arms. They lead the girls and do their share of cheers. Seniors traditionally form the "F" for the football pre-game ceremonies.

During football or basketball, Peppers always show enthusiasm and spirit.

Getting into the spirit of things, the Senior Peppers, shown at left, clap to the music provided by the band.

The 26 Club is composed of thirteen juniors and thirteen seniors. The club works to promote school spirit. It sponsors Homecoming, Colors Day, athletic banquets, selling of ribbons, pennants, season tickets, and decorating the goal posts for games. Members are chosen by papers written on school spirit which are submitted to the club.

After the crowning of the Queen at the game, the Royalty was honored at the Homecoming Dance.

reflects service and school spirit

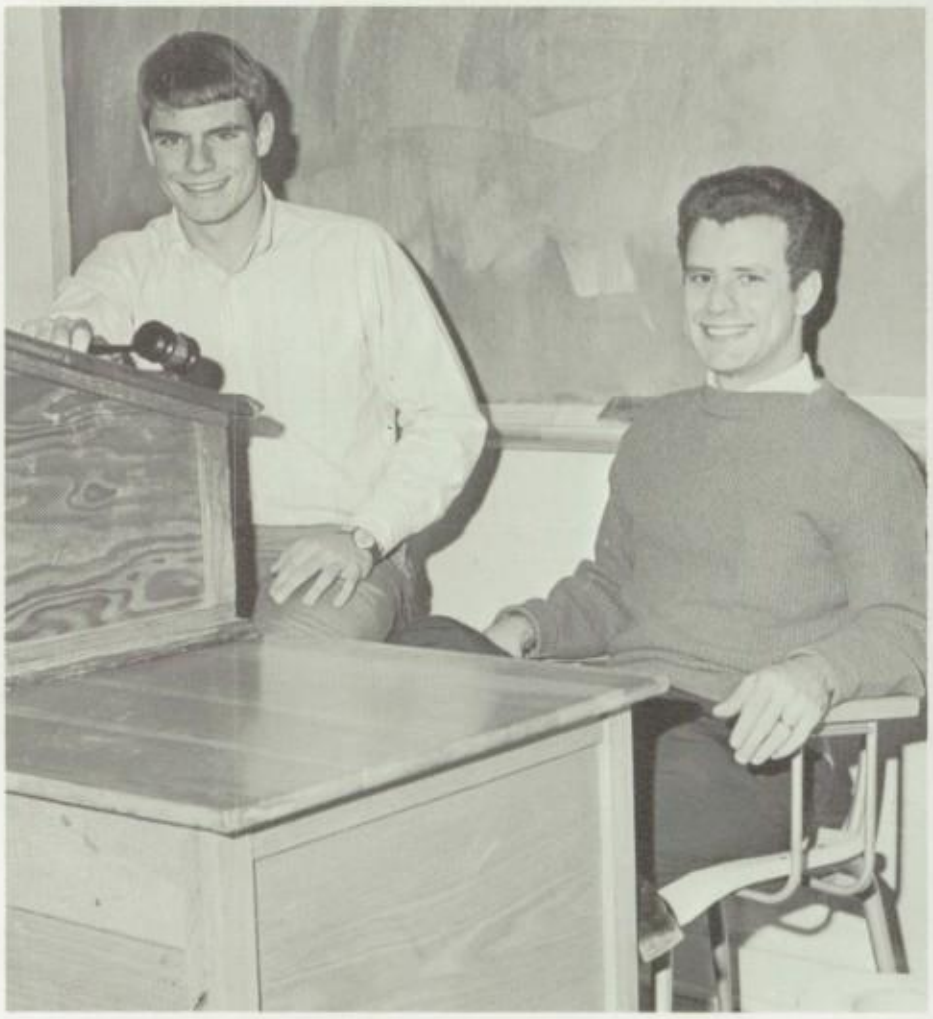
Keeping with the FHS role as one large clubhouse, the Student Council is probably the most active member. Promoting leadership and scholar spirit, the Council devised a number of projects to improve FHS. Emphasizing good student-teacher relations and service to the school, the club began the fall semester.

The Council first sought to put an end to the parking problem. By dividing the spaces and selling registration stickers they reduced the confusion.

Early in the year, the SC picked up the name "suggestion box", because of its efforts to place suggestion boxes in each home room to obtain student opinion. The idea proved to be very helpful in determining school projects and cafeteria improvements such as menu boards and food selections.

In October the SC asked all students to open up their pocketbooks and contribute to the United Fund. The club collected $369.

Later in October brought a trip to Little Rock, Arkansas, for the Southern Association of Student Councils. Last year FHS was elected Journal Editor of the SASC for a two year term.



Student Council sponsor Mr. Estes and president Jack Butt frequently discuss SC ideas. Below, the other officers include Van Gearhart, reporter; Denise Deaver, journal editor; Carolyn Curtis, treasurer; Gretchen Rahtz, secretary; and Ricky Durst, vice-president.

Denise Deaver served as journal editor for this year's Southern Association of Student Councils. In October Denise, "chaperone" Mr. Estes, and SC officers Van Gearhart and Ricky Durst attended the SASC convention in Little Rock.

sc pledges leadership

Then came Christmas with its many planned activities. The SC decorated its traditional Christmas tree, and opened a post office for card exchanging (right). A canned food drive, won by the seniors, was also sponsored. The week was topped off with the SC annual dance, "Christmas in Whoville". (lower right)

The Student Council planned many events and projects for the second semester. Hoping to benefit the student body, the SC outlined their agenda as follows:

In February they held a Valentine's Post Office, delivering cards to "special people." Also in February, two Student Council representatives, sponsor Mr. Estes and next year's journal editor, Pat Bailey, traveled to New Orleans for an executive meeting of the Southern Association of Student Councils.

In March came Twirp (the woman is requested to pay) Week, and in April the SC elections. This year's Twirp Week saw a talent show, a "hippie-like" dance, boys growing or trying to grow beards, and many other interesting events.

Finally, the student body elected five of the many qualified politicians running for an office of SC.

The Blood Mobile sparked a new contest between Springdale and Fayetteville High Schools. Students who were over 18 and with their parents consent were asked to give their blood to fill the quota of blood units needed. The high school with the greater number of students participating received a plaque. Unfortunately, Springdale won with a score of 31 to 23 units.

deca develops future leaders

Deca identifies the program of youth activity relating to DE - Distributive Education Clubs of America - and is designed to develop future leaders for marketing and distribution. Purposes are (1) to develop a respect for education in marketing and distribution which will contribute to occupational competence, (2) to promote understanding and appreciation for the responsibilities of citizenship in our free, competitive enterprise system.

A list of DECA activities for this year is impressive. They held a get-acquainted coffee for teachers; installed officers and initiated new members; visited Oklahoma State Technical School at Okmulgee; and held their annual Christmas party. In addition, they conducted a school poll, determining the approximate income and spending habits of FHS students; attended the state leadership conference at Little Rock; and paid tribute to employers with the Employer-Employee Banquet in the spring.

the hills and valleys . ...

. . . the heights and depths, the ups and downs, the highs and lows - three years of this. Three long, short, dull, exciting, despondent, ecstatic, impossible, wonderful years. Important years of growing, of learning, and of having a blast. Years to be remembered, the best and the worst. A time worth writing about, worth reading about.

We haven't tried to summarize. And we don't mean to wrap everything up in one neat package and call it "memories." We only hope that a word here, a picture there, will recall some thought, some chain of remembrance. The AMETHYST doesn't include every event, or everything you'd like to remember about the '67-'68 school year. It couldn't. This book is no more than an outline, a collection of impressions, an attempt to present to you your year at FHS.

The staff has worked and worried and worried and worked. It was a tough job - some fun but mostly sweat. But, like any book by any author, if it means something to someone, somewhere, it's worth it all.

student body elects student council officers

The candidates for Student Council officers are waiting their turn to deliver their campaign speeches.

Twirp (The Woman Is Requested to Pay) Week is an annual event at FHS. Sponsored by the Student Council, the week was highlighted by an assembly and a dance. Following the psychedelic theme selected for this year's dance, hippie dress, complete with beads and sandles, was prevalent, as shown above.

dance adds climax to twirp week

ASTRA Club of Fayetteville, a new service organization for high school girls, initiated its charter members and installed officers June 6. ASTRA stands for ability, service, training, responsibility, and achievement. The thirty girls were chosen on the basis of scholarship, service, citizenship, and leadership. Miss Margaret Thurman was selected to sponsor the group, with Mr. R. W. Willis as activities director.

Mrs. Mildred Starks (left) of Stillwater, Okla., a governor of Altrusa International, Inc., attended the meeting on June 6 to initiate new members and install officers. (Below) The fathers of the new initiates were requested to pin the ASTRA pin on their daughters. School officials and civic leaders served as 'fathers for a night' by pinning girls whose fathers were not present.

track team finishes second in conference

The Fayetteville track team with new coach Bobby Nix began their season with a victory at the Russellville Relays. Rain had delayed most of the early spring practice. At the Horace Mann Relays, the pole vault was the scoring event for the Bulldogs. Fayetteville finished a close third in the Northside Relays behind Fort Smith Northside. The team held an A and B meet in which Fayetteville won in both divisions. The Dogs also won at Van Buren. Later, they traveled to Springdale and to Russellville to compete in the Springdale Relays and the Arkansas Tech Relays.

The Fayetteville Relays was the last meet before the conference meet in Hot Springs. Fayetteville placed second in both meets behind Northside to finish the year.

New school records set this year were Bob Cheyne's 53 feet, 2 1/2 inches in the shot put; Rick McWhorter's thirteen foot pole vault; and Val Robison's 4:32.6 time in the mile run.

Jack Young and Dick Anderson address the golf ball.

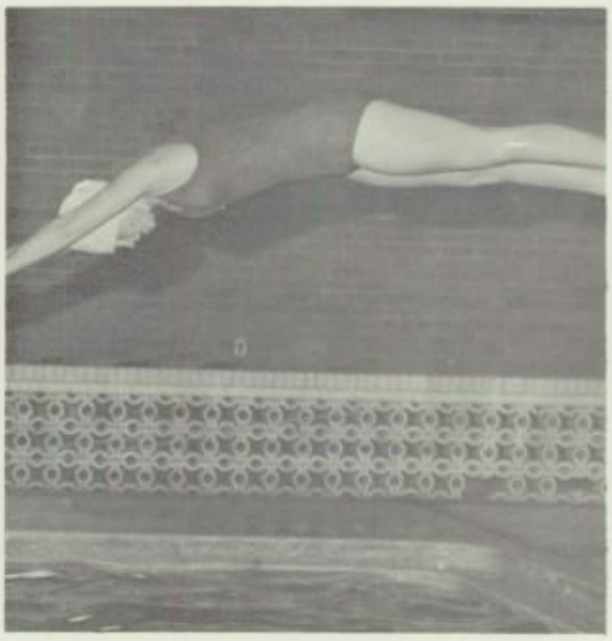
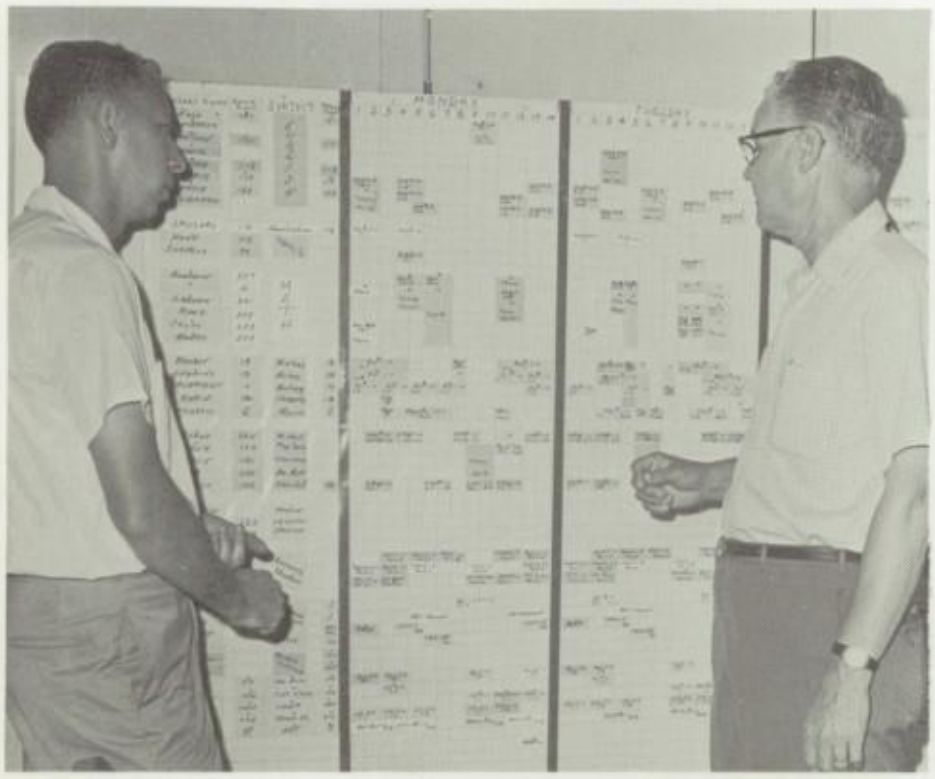
golf team places second in conference

The golf team had a very successful year. A four man team of Dick Anderson, Jack Young, Bob Baucom and Rick Keeton placed second in the conference yielding only to Hot Springs. The team of Jack Young and Dick Anderson was in state competition this summer.

girls' p.e. classes learn water skills

The girl's P.E. Classes, under the direction of coaches Mrs. Carol Brunner and David Vinson, won their wings (water wings) in water safety classes which were held in the youth center pool during the spring semester. Beginning with the fun of water basketball as demonstrated in the upper left picture, the girls were instructed in rescue procedures, swimming strokes, formation swimming, and diving.





Mr. Pudlas and Mr. Duncan discuss the flexible scheduling which will go into effect next fall at FHS.

senior class play

The musical, "OLIVER!", chosen by the senior class for presentation, is the adaption of a novel by Charles Dickens. The novel concerns the life of an English workhouse boy and how he "makes good."

The production was directed by Mrs. Wallie Ingalls with technical director, Miss Patty Howe. Music direction was by Mr. Don Wright and Miss Pat Ellison.

At left, Nancy (Pat Gideon) promises to love Bill Sikes "as long as he needs me." Above, Mr. Sowerberry, the undertaker, and his wife (David McNair and Shannon Martin) extol the glories of his profession in "It's Your Funeral."

And now it's 'sock it to me' time, as Bill Sikes (Terry Cruse) strikes Nancy (Pat Gideon).

The complete cast joins together for the finale-- a final farewell to a great senior play!
